10,000 Lakes Sanctuary

rescue - rehabilitate - release

Welcome to 10,000 Lakes Sanctuary!

We take in sick, injured and orphaned animals to rehabilitate and release back to the wild.

who we are

10,000 Lakes Sanctuary is a non-profit, donation based rehabilitation center located just outside of the twin cities. We rescue sick, injured and orphaned animals and do our best to rehabilitate and release them back into the wild. The animals we see at the sanctuary come from a variety of environments in all kinds of conditions. Our medical staff works 24 hours to provide excellent care. We also rely heavily on our volunteers to help us with daily maintenance, cleaning and feeding.

description

The Great Blue Heron has long legs, a strong dagger-like bill, and a shaggy appearance due to the plumes around its head, chest and wings. They are blue-gray in coloring and have a black stripe over the eye. Most notably they can be identified by the "S" shape made by its neck.

habitat

Great Blue Herons are commonly found throughout Minnesota in the warmer months and in the southern areas, year round. While their habitat ranges a variety of environments, they are likely to be spotted along marshes, riverbanks and freshwater lakes.

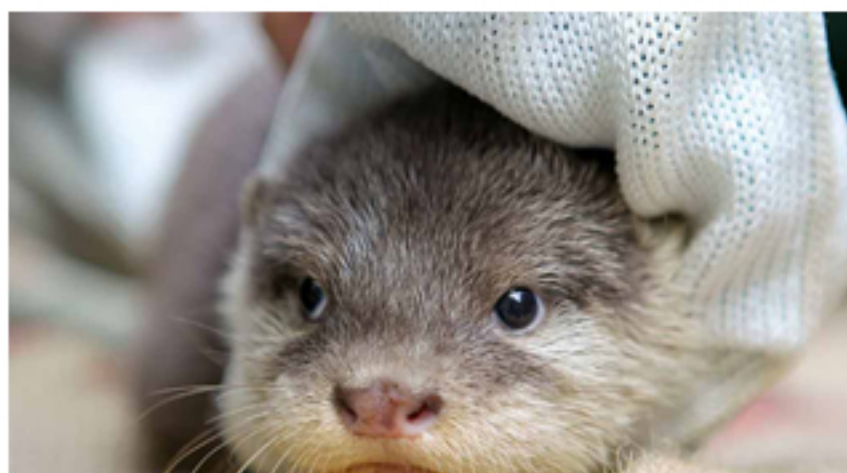

in our care

This Heron was brought to us by a family that found the bird near their home, unable to fly, and appearing to be in distress. Upon arrival, the team performed an X-ray and determined she had experienced some type of trauma to her wing that caused a small fracture.

otter pups

This little otter pup was abandoned by his mother. He was malnourished when brought to us and needs to learn how to behave in order to survive on his own in the wild. He will be at the sanctuary until he is able to survive on his own.
